"ART FOR THE MASSES" OPENS MAY 3RD IN THE NORTH GALLERY

Who is the Picasso of Graphic Design? The Rembrandt of Photography? The Da Vinci of Advertising? The answers to these questions will be found at a fascinating new exhibit in the North Gallery from May 3rd to the 31st. Leaders in the field of communication arts will be featured in a first of its kind exhibition. The Opening reception is this Thursday, May 4th, from 6-8pm!

Pieces on display will include everything from a 20-foot long McDonald's billboard to a television commercial promoting the Donahue Show, to award-winning Fisher-Price toys. Well-known artists such as Martha Voutas and MIT's Jackie Casey (design), HHCC Vice President Paul Regan (Advertising), Robert Gersin and Miriam Kolker (Industrial Design) and Susie Cushner (Photography) will be represented.

MassArt's Alumni Association is celebrating its 100-year anniversary with this exhibit that features the best in these fields from alumni/ae of this institution. The president-elect of the Alumni Association, and ClarkeGowardFittsMatteson Executive Vice President, Jim Fitts, originated the idea for this exhibit and is organizing the event. His primary goal is to bring attention to the outstanding work being produced in the communication arts that surround us all in our everyday lives. He also hopes to bring much-deserved public recognition to MassArt as a leading institution for education in design.

Don't miss this exciting exhibit of some of the great artists of our time. The variety of pieces will include both recognizable favorites and unique surprises in the setting of the North Gallery. For more info. call 232-1555, x258.

In addition, "The MassArt Time Line, An On-Going Historical Project" is presented by the College's archives department. It is a visual-chronological representation of the College's 115-year history, illustrated by archival material. The basic data is lodged in a computer spreadsheet, so it can easily grow, in length of course as the years proceed, but also in depth and texture as alums, faculty and researchers bring forth new information and ideas. The archival exhibition will be on the 12th floor of the Tower Building May 4th-30th.

MORTON R. GODINE LIBRARY

Monday, April 24th, Dedication Ceremonies were held for the purpose of naming the new and expanded Massachusetts College of Art Library after the late Dr. Morton R. Godine, who was a well-known Brookline resident. The ceremonies were held at the MassArt Library. Thus, the library of the ONLY public supported, independent, professional art college in the ENTIRE NATION will be known, from this day on, as the Morton R. Godine Library. Dr. Godine has been dearly missed by the entire MassArt community since his passing away last fall.

Dr. Godine received his Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts at McGill University. He received his Ph.D. in Political Science and Public Administration at Harvard University. After 27 years of employment at Market Forge Company in Everett, where he became Vice President, Dr. Godine served as the Head of the MassArt's Administration and Finance Department from 1975-1982. He had been an active member of the MassArt Foundation since 1981, and he had been a hard-working and loving member of the College's Board of Trustees since 1984. Dr. Godine had always been involved with numerous community organizations and has written a variety of publications.

At the Dedication Ceremonies, MassArt President Dr. William F. O'Neil stated, "To family members and friends of Dr. Morton Godine, I want you to know that he touched the lives of so many people here at MassArt. Dr. Godine was dedicated to this institution and he encouraged so many of us - students, faculty, administrators, and alumni alike - to pursue goals that often times seemed unattainable. He was a very special person to all of us and this beautiful library will insure that the warm flames of his generous and caring memory will glow in our hearts forever. . ."

STAFF "IN THE NEWS"

This year Debbie Loeser, who is our College's Project Director for the Boston Liaison Program was selected as one of seven outstanding women who received citations from the College Club. The College Club, which is the oldest college club in the United States for women, honors women who have made contributions to their chosen fields. Loeser was cited for her work with the Boston Schools, which was recently featured in The Globe. Debbie Loeser works in the Art Education Department where she has developed curriculum materials to help school children view and understand the exhibitions in the North Gallery. Her aim has been to bring together MassArt students, with school children, artists and teachers. About 1,000 children have visited the gallery in the past year and a half.
